

Based on ted.com

This year's TEDxSnolsleLibraries has featured a new way to interact.

During the event (and until November 13) all can join TED online to comment and ask questions using mobile devices or computers through the interactive software platform.

Zsafia Pasztor

Farmer Frog Executive Director

<https://www.ted.com/tedx/events/23033>

Zsafia Pasztor's passions are children and the environment. She is the founder of Farmer Frog. An award-winning landscape designer, permaculturist, horticulturist, and arborist, Zsafia teaches restoration horticulture, urban agriculture, and low impact development (LID) at Edmonds Community College. She also teaches sustainable site management internationally through several non-profit organizations. Zsafia was born and raised in Hungary. She and her husband, Zsolt Pasztor, left Hungary in 1987 and spent almost two years in a United Nations refugee camp before the United States brought them to Denver. They moved to Washington State in 1990 with four children. Zsafia has observed that when people grow food together, they improve their sense of community as well as their health. Across generations, everyone can participate in food production. Zsafia is concerned about children who may face preventable, lifestyle- and diet-related diseases